Cultural Resource
Impact Studies for Section 106
Compliance

Nationwide

Row 10 Historic Preservation Solutions, LLC (Row 10) specializes in studies designed to recognize potential impact to cultural resources in advance of construction and development projects. These studies assist federal agencies with their compliance with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA) and in the evaluation of impacts to cultural resources under the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) by not only identifying historic buildings, archaeological sites, and other historic properties that may be affected by a potential project, but also to determine potential consulting parties and delineate next steps for the successful completion of the Section 106 process.

To complete each study, Row 10's architectural historians review each site for listed and potential National Register of Historic Places properties, research the historic use of the property, and conduct abbreviated windshield surveys of the surrounding area to identify historic properties in the immediate vicinity of the potential project. All our architectural historians exceed the Secretary of the Interior's Professional Qualification Standards for architectural history.

These resulting studies support the federal agency in the efficient and successful completion of its NHPA and NEPA responsibilities to ensure smooth completion of the potential project.
